Gentleman's Magazine 15 July 1798. Interred in Weston Churchyard, Bath the remains of Charles Cobbe esq. The armed volunteers fired three volleys over his grave as a last mark of respect for their very worthy, much beloved and much lamented officer. He was 41 years of age the nephew of the Marquis of Waterford and member in the Irish Parliament for the borough of Swords. Many thousands of people of all ranks were present at the funeral; and a heavy storm of rain falling just at the time of internment, few escaped being wet to the skin. The volunteers were all dressed in their uniforms and made an appearance highly respectable.

Bath Herald & Register Saturday 14 July 1798. On Monday died in the prime of life, Charles Cobbe esq. Representative in Parliament for the borough of Swords in Ireland and nephew of the Marquess of Waterford. As a son, a husband and a father he was dutiful, tender and affectionate; steady in his friendship; amiable and engaging in his manners and disposition. It is impossible have known him and not to sympathize with his near and dear relatives in the loss they sustain. He was one of the Captains of the Bath Volunteers and in his attention to the discipline of his Company, he displayed the most laudable zeal and assiduity; and by his manly and obliging conduct endeared himself to every individual in the corps. The four Companies will, on Sunday next, attend his remains to Weston where some military honours will be respectfully paid to the memory of so esteemed an Officer.
