Summary. Kilmore a parish in the barony of Ballintobber county of Roscommon and province of Connaught two miles from Drumsna on the road to Elphin. Near the shores of Lough Bodarig is Ballycommon formerly the seat of the Earl of Roscommon now occupied by Lieutenant Rodrick J. Hanly and to the north is Clooteen a handsome and newly built lodge belonging to the Marquess of Westmeath. A short canal crosses the edge of the Parish and between it and the river is Charlestown the seat of Sir Gilbert King Baronet beautifully situated in a richly embellished demesne and approached by a noble avenue of lime trees. Other seats include Kilmore House built 1630 that of A. A'hmuty M.D and Tully the seat of J. W. Kelly Esq. The living is a Rectory in the diocese of Elphin in the patronage of A. A'hmuty and J. W. Kelly Esquires representatives of the Lawder family, tithes amount to £200. The glebe house was built in 1828 by a loan of £360 and a gift of £369 from the late Board of First Fruits. The glebe comprises nine acres of meadow land held by the rector Rev R. Jones. Schools for boys and girls are aided by subscriptions collected by the rector. A loan fund has been established under the superintendence of A. A'hmuty which though of small extent has been very beneficial to the poor. The late Mr Lawder of this Parish bequeathed £20 per annum for clothing six poor men and six poor women.

Dedication: Many of the following poems having been honoured with public and repeated marks of attention from some of the most accomplished writers of the present age, when published in The Oracle, under the Signatures of Laura, Laura Maria, Oberon &c the Author was induced to acknowledge and arrange them in their present form. The illustrious, and distinguished names that appear in the list of Subscribers will prove lasting testimonies of the liberal sentiments of a polished nation: Mrs Robinson has the particular gratification of knowing that the efforts of her pen were warmly and honourably patronized under Feigned Signatures: had she avowed them at an earlier period the pleasure she now feels would have been considerably diminished, in the idea that the partiality of friends had procured the sanction her Poems have been favoured with from the candid and enlightened - To Whom They Are Dedicated With The Most Profound Respect

Walter Scott the novelist is noted as having written in 1802 - The mode of publishing by Subscription is one which in itself can carry nothing degrading and which, in many of the more extensive and highly priced publications, is perhaps essentially necessary. However it is asking the public to become bound to pay for what they have not seen and carries with it, if not the reality, at least the appearance of personal solicitation and personal obligation.
